A QUICK PASTOR'S NOTE:

I'm always grateful and edified by the care people show for our parish—even in the small details. It means you're paying attention to what we are doing, and that matters.

At the same time, we all know how easy it is to get caught up in little issues and minor details. I would simply ask your help (for me and for our staff) in keeping our time and energy focused where it is most needed by first asking a question when an issue arises: is this truly important, or is it a minor detail, or even simply personal preference?

I do want to remain open to what people share, but I also must be mindful not to spread myself—or our staff—too thin, especially when many small requests begin to add up, and can be difficult to handle. That perspective helps keep all of us focused on what matters most—our life of faith together. Thank you for your help, and God Bless!
-Fr. Belken

Any time there was a saw involved in a project on the farm- the mantra was "measure twice, cut once." The rationale was simple- if you take the careful approach to your work, you'll be doing a lot less of it. I found it to be true too many times with pipes, wires, fences, and yes, even boards, and I'll admit it is still a lesson I must keep in mind at times today. There is no better way than the "careful and diligent" way.

In the Gospel, Thomas asks Jesus this question- "how can we know the way?" Jesus answers in this way: "I am the way, the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me." In other words- if one wants to get to heaven, they have to know Jesus (and His way) first!

In an age where we are used to thinking that truth is to be determined by each individual, though, it is possible for us to think that we know of other ways or "shortcuts" to salvation. Often we might try to cut out what we think are inconvenient Church teachings or limit how much our faith asks of us (such as how much effort we must expend to make it to Mass on Sunday, or confession). Such a method of operation has been coined as "Cafeteria Catholicism" where one picks and chooses what they would like, and leaves behind what they don't.

However, if we start to make our "own way" to salvation, we will quickly find ourselves distanced from Christ, and from His Church. Our faith is not what we make of it- it is a surefire path designed to keep us careful and diligent in practicing our faith, and not doing the bare minimum (and making life longer and harder).

Remember the right way (and the easier one)- measure twice, cut once!

~Fr. Belken
